

Maine Learning Results for World Languages (MLRs for World Languages)

Languagenut provides standards-aligned support across all MLRs for World Languages through interactive listening and reading, presentational speaking and writing, grammar, vocabulary, and cultural learning activities, while providing teachers with measurable evidence of student progress through reporting and assessment tools.

Novice Mid – Advanced Mid

MLRs for World Languages

How Languagenut Supports It

1. Interpretive Listening

Native-speaker audio, listening activities, dictation, listening comprehension tasks, vocabulary-in-context exercises, and self-paced listening practice.

2. Interpretive Reading

Reading texts, reports, dialogues, cultural content, comprehension activities, vocabulary recognition, and reading-for-meaning tasks.

3. Interpersonal Communication

Speaking activities, photo description, role-play support through Sentence Builders, conversation practice, question and answer tasks, and vocabulary needed for real-world communication.

4. Presentational Speaking

Vocabulary and grammar scaffolding that prepares students for presentations, speaking tasks, descriptions, and oral performance assessments.

5. Presentational Writing

Sentence-building activities, writing prompts, grammar practice, structured writing tasks, and vocabulary support for written communication.

6. Culture

Cultural content from Spanish speaking countries including traditions, geography, celebrations, daily life, authentic images, and cultural comparisons.

MLRs for World Languages

How Languagenut Supports It

7. Connections

Cross-curricular topics including geography, history, food, science, numeracy, current events, and global awareness delivered through the target language.

8. Comparisons

Cognates, grammar comparisons, language structures, pronunciation activities, and cultural comparison opportunities.

9. Communities

Real-world language use, authentic content, global perspectives, and opportunities for students to engage with language beyond the classroom.